The School of Law offers a three-year, full-time professional curriculum leading to the doctor of jurisprudence (JD) degree; a two-year, full-time program leading to an interdisciplinary master’s degree (MA or MS) in conflict and dispute resolution; and a one-year, full-time program leading to a master of laws (LLM) with concentrations in American law, business law, conflict and dispute resolution, and environmental and natural resources law; and a variety of undergraduate courses in legal studies.

The law school’s broad-based curriculum and clinical programs prepare students for careers in almost every practice area and professional setting. Special centers and programs include business law and entrepreneurship; criminal law; environmental and natural resources law; dispute resolution; estate planning; family, child, and elder law; intellectual property; international law; public law and policy; sports law; tax law; and the Wayne Morse Center for Law and Politics.

The Center for Career Planning and Professional Development offers counseling, seminars, mentoring programs, and connections to UO law graduates throughout the world.

The William W. Knight Law Center offers a spacious, warm environment for study and community activities and includes more than 1,500 fast-Ethernet jacks and wireless access throughout the building.

The John E. Jaqua Law Library is a light-filled space occupying three floors, designed to meet the research and study needs of law students. It provides print, electronic, and video resources, and has full wireless access. Each floor of the law library contains a mix of books, tables, carrels, equipment, and study rooms. Law students can use our online catalog to order materials from the law library and from other libraries in Oregon and Washington. Attorney librarians teach students how to perform legal research in class and in the library.

UO law students run three journals and nearly 40 active student organizations, serve the public in numerous clinical programs, and organize the world’s oldest and largest public interest environmental law conference, attracting more than 3,000 participants each year. In addition, UO law students have received the top Oregon State Bar Association award for pro bono work nine times.

Additional information and complete descriptions of courses offered appear on the school website.

Academic Calendar for Law Students

The School of Law JD and LLM programs operate on a semester calendar. On this schedule, registration for fall and spring semesters begins the third week of April, fall semester examinations are given before the winter vacation, and the spring semester ends in mid-May. More information about calendar dates is available online at registrar.uoregon.edu/calendars/academic.

January Term

The School of Law offers a collection of one-week intensive courses held the week before the start of the regular spring semester.

Summer Session

The School of Law offers a summer session that is open to law students who have completed at least one year of legal studies and who are in good standing at a law school accredited by the American Bar Association. Summer session is not open to beginning law students.

Clinics, Externships, and Practical Skills

The law school’s Clinics Program and Externship Program give students real-world experience with concepts learned in the classroom. The programs offer second- and third-year students access to practical work experiences that better prepare them for law practice, increasing their use to potential employers.

Students and employers alike recognize the value of clinical training during law school, and the demand for practice experience is high. Almost 85 percent of UO law students have participated in at least one clinical or externship opportunity before they graduate.

Bankruptcy Externships

Students serve as judicial externs for the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Oregon and participate in all aspects of judicial decision-making, including researching and drafting bench memorandums and opinions, and observing oral arguments and chambers conferences. Students also have the opportunity to extern at the Office of the United States Trustee, the division of the US Department of Justice responsible for overseeing the administration of bankruptcy cases.

Business Law Clinic

Students advise local small-business owners on business formations, stock sales, leases, contracts, and other transactional legal issues.

Child Advocacy Externships

Students in this externship work during the summer for Oregon juvenile court judges and practitioners. Those who work with judges perform research, prepare for and observe all types of hearings in juvenile delinquency and dependency cases, and work on a major law reform project under the judge’s direction. Students placed with practitioners are involved in all areas of the attorneys’ practices.

Civil Practice Clinic and Advanced Civil Practice Clinic

Students represent low-income clients through Lane County Legal Aid. Cases may result in a court appearance or contested case hearing, often involving social security, welfare, food stamp, public housing, or unemployment benefits.

Criminal Defense and Advanced Criminal Defense Clinic

Students conduct client and witness interviews and investigations and help defend clients in a wide range of misdemeanor prosecutions in Oregon Circuit Court through Public Defender Services of Lane County.
Criminal Justice Externships
Externs work for public defenders, US attorneys, states attorneys, and district attorneys doing a range of work. Court certified students are able to appear in court.

Criminal Prosecution Clinic and Advanced Prosecution Clinic
Students are assigned to one of several local prosecutors' offices, where they prepare and try minor criminal cases under the supervision of an attorney. In the advanced clinic, students try jury trials, prepare felony trials, respond to and argue circuit court motions, and assist felony trial lawyers with circuit court cases.

Domestic Violence Civil Clinic and Advanced Domestic Violence Civil Clinic
Students work with attorneys to provide comprehensive civil legal services to victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking while learning the skills required for client representation in litigation-based practice.

Domestic Violence Protective Order Clinic and Advanced Domestic Violence Protective Order Clinic
Students work with attorneys to provide protective order legal services to victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking while learning the skills required for client representation in litigation-based practice.

Domestic Violence Externships
Students are placed at the Klamath Falls Legal Aid Services of Oregon office and handle a range of issues related to the representation of domestic violence victims. Externs often have the opportunity to appear in court. The externship exposes students to the challenges faced by low-income, rural victims of violence.

Environmental Law Clinic and Advanced Environmental Law Clinic
Working with the Western Environmental Law Center, students assist in primarily federal court litigation representing nonprofits in enforcing federal environmental law.

Environmental Law Externships
Externs are placed with governmental and nonprofit agencies from Oregon to Washington, DC, working on a variety of issues related to environmental regulations and compliance, energy policy, land use, and climate change.

General Externships
Externs are placed with nonprofit organizations and governmental agencies in a variety of settings to gain practical experience in different readings of the law. Recent externships have seen students working in civil justice, NCAA sports compliance, the Library of Congress, Oregon wineries, and political offices.

In-House Counsel Externships
Students are placed in corporate counsel offices to give them a window into the world of major Oregon businesses and the operations of corporate legal counsel. Students participating in the program are exposed to the roles of in-house counsel, the relationship between in-house and outside counsel, and the workings of business operations.

The substantial classroom component for both full- and part-time externs explores ethical issues faced by corporate counsel.

Judicial Externships
Externs work for district and appellate federal courts, federal immigration court, state trial and appellate courts, and the U.S. bankruptcy courts. The judges include students in all aspects of their work, including settlement meetings, trials, and discussions in chambers.

Legislative Issues Workshop
Students are involved in research, bill tracking, report writing, committee presentation, and other tasks during the biennial sessions of the Oregon Legislative Assembly.

Local Government Externships
Student externs work in city government offices and with law firms representing cities and counties on a wide range of legal issues.

Mediation Clinic
After mediation training, students spend one morning each week working in a local small claims court, helping disputants to search for nonlitigation solutions to their problems.

Nonprofit Clinic
The nonprofit clinic is a joint venture with the UO's Department of Planning, Public Policy and Management and the Master's Degree in Conflict and Dispute Resolution program. Students learn about assessment of nonprofit organizations with assistance from experienced practitioners in the field and through practical experience working with nonprofit clients.

Small Claims Mediation Clinic
Intensive, skills-oriented course that trains law students to mediate a range of cases. Skills training offers opportunities to practice communication skills and the mediation model in role-playing activities. Enhances interviewing, problem solving and analysis, and negotiation skills.

Tax Externships
Students work full- or part-time with the Office of Chief Counsel for the Internal Revenue Service in Portland. The counsel's office represents the IRS in litigation in the US Tax Court. Students research and write on tax issues involving small businesses and individuals.

Trial Practice
Students examine and develop courtroom skills in civil and criminal cases. Primary emphases are on the opening statement, direct examination, cross-examination, objections, closing argument, and voir dire of juries. Each student participates in weekly classroom exercises and in a full trial at the end of the semester.

Centers and Programs
Appropriate Dispute Resolution Center
Many lawyers today are more likely to participate in a settlement conference, mandatory arbitration, or mediation session than they are to argue a case in the courtroom. The law school's appropriate dispute resolution courses, trainings, and programs help students understand a wide range of dispute resolution methods so that as lawyers they may advise their clients wisely. adr.uoregon.edu
Business Law
Comprehensive business law courses contribute to the core of the law school curriculum. Practical experience is gained in classroom studies and in real-world opportunities, teaching students the relationship between law and entrepreneurship and providing students the necessary deal-making skills to become transactional lawyers. bizlaw.uoregon.edu

Criminal Practice Program
The University of Oregon Criminal Justice Program prepares future lawyers with the knowledge and practical skills necessary to practice in the criminal justice system as prosecutors and attorneys for criminal defendants and parents and children in the juvenile justice and child-welfare systems. https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/criminal-justice

Environmental and Natural Resources Law
For more than forty years, this program’s focus on public interest environmental law and its commitment to innovations in environmental legal education have made it one of the nation’s oldest and most respected programs. Its faculty is involved in innovative legal scholarship that makes a global impact on environmental law. enr.uoregon.edu

Family Law, Child Advocacy Law, and Elder Law
The increasingly complex nature of family relationships requires lawyers to possess an in-depth understanding of the law that structures them. Future legal practitioners gain the knowledge and practical skills necessary to advocate for children, families, and the elderly, and also may pursue opportunities and hone their skills with the law school’s Child Advocacy Project or the Domestic Violence Clinic. familylaw.uoregon.edu

International Law
Globalization, extensive migration, and shifting demographics make international law a crucial component of legal education, creating an imperative to educate students prepared to practice at home and abroad. https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/international-law

Legal Research and Writing
This rigorous program thoroughly prepares law students for the exacting style of writing expected of individuals in a clerkship or legal practice. https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/LRW

Portland Program
The program creates opportunities for students to build ties with the legal and business community in Portland, Oregon. As the state’s largest city, Portland is home to more than 3,000 UO School of Law alumni. The Portland Program offers externships, courses, symposiums, and a summer session. https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/portland-program

Public Law and Policy Program
Building on a foundation of course offerings, career planning support, and service opportunities, UO students prepare for careers in the public sector. UO law graduates accept public service positions at rates far exceeding the national average. https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/public-law

Sports Law
The Sports Law Program prepares students to enter a rapidly growing and evolving field. Through traditional course work and experiences outside of the classroom, students learn about legal areas surrounding the sports industry and gain practical skills in contract negotiation, legal drafting, sponsorships, business development, labor law, and intellectual property and licensing. https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/sports-law

Wayne Morse Center for Law and Politics
An independent center within the law school, the Wayne Morse Center for Law and Politics organizes dynamic programs in the spirit and tradition of former U.S. senator and law school dean Wayne Morse. Senator Morse was best known for his stance against the Vietnam War and as an advocate for civil rights, labor rights, and the rule of law. waynemorsecenter.uoregon.edu

Admission Procedures
Prelaw Preparation
The School of Law does not prescribe a prelaw curriculum. Intellectual maturity and breadth of educational background are considered more important than specific subject matter.

Details about prelaw study and law school admission criteria appear under Law, Preparatory, in the Academic Resources section of this catalog.

Information about the School of Law and its programs is available on its website (https://law.uoregon.edu). Additional information may be requested through the website or by contacting the Office of Admissions. Admissions staff members are happy to respond to inquiries regarding the admission process as well as to make arrangements for visits to the School of Law.

Requirements through the Law School Admission Council
The University of Oregon School of Law is a member of the Law School Admission Council (LSAC). To complete the application process, an applicant must register with LSAC to take the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) and participate in the Credential Assembly Service (CAS); register at www.lsac.org (http://www.lsac.org) or call 215-968-1001. An applicant should take the LSAT no later than February of the year in which they wish to enroll. A score from the June 2012 test administration is the oldest acceptable score for fall 2017. An applicant must submit official academic transcripts of all college-level work and postgraduate work and letters of recommendation to the LSAC. All required fees must be paid and all required documents received before the admissions committee will review an application. Applicants receive an admission decision from the Office of Admissions in a letter sent through email or the United States Postal Service between December and May.

Basic Admission Requirements
An applicant must have a bachelor’s degree from an accredited college or university prior to enrolling in the School of Law. Enrollment restrictions and the large volume of applications for admission to the law school make it necessary to admit applicants who, in terms of their overall records, are the most qualified for legal studies.

In evaluating the strength of the overall record, the admissions committee considers the undergraduate grade point average (GPA), the results of the Law School Admission Test (LSAT), the personal statement, and letters of recommendation. The applicant should also submit a résumé that highlights educational background, employment, global and multicultural experience, and extracurricular activities. International applicants are required to submit results of the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL).
The admissions committee strives to annually enroll a class that is academically distinguished and reflects a rich blend of educational, economic, cultural, and professional backgrounds.

Costs and Financial Aid

Law students are classified as graduate students. Tuition and fees are payable in full as prescribed by the Office of Business Affairs. Payment of the stipulated fees entitles students enrolled for academic credit to all services maintained by the university for the benefit of students.

Tuition and Fees for JD Program

For the 2015–16 academic year, tuition and fees were $31,506 for resident students and $39,210 for nonresidents. See the law school website for more information. Tuition and fee schedules are subject to revision by the State Board of Higher Education.

Residence classification regulations appear in Chapter 580, Division 10, of Oregon Administrative Rules, which are quoted in the Admissions section of this catalog. Details governing administration of nonresident and resident policies are complex. For answers to individual questions, students are advised to consult a staff member in the university’s Office of Admissions.

Total Costs

Because student living arrangements and personal spending habits vary widely, no single figure represents the cost of attending the university. Information on total 2013–14 costs for a resident student at the School of Law is available to view on the Office of Student Financial Aid and Scholarships website (http://financialaid.uoregon.edu/cost_of_attendance_law). The child-care allowance varies according to circumstance and is based on documentable costs for the period of time the student is enrolled. Transportation costs also vary.

Health insurance is optional. Costs for semester or for full twelve-month coverage are available in the office of the Associated Students of the University of Oregon.

Financial Assistance

See the Student Financial Aid and Scholarships section of this catalog for complete information about financial aid including loans.

Scholarships and Fellowships

Information about scholarships and financial aid is available on the school’s website (https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/JD-faq) and at https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/1L-fellowships or by telephone, 541-346-3846.

The law school has a Loan Repayment Assistance Program (LRAP) to help students with large law school loans to more easily enter public service. Learn more by visiting the website (https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/LRAP).

Degree Programs

The curriculum presents fundamental subjects of law during the first year, and the first-year program is prescribed. These required courses are designed to provide a solid foundation in legal theory, practical writing and research skills, and a theoretical and practical knowledge of the law. All but two second- and third-year courses are elective.

During the second or third year of law school, each student must also complete at least one course with substantial professional skills components to qualify for graduation. Professional skills include clinics and externships, trial and appellate advocacy, alternate methods of dispute resolution, counseling, interviewing, negotiating, and drafting.

Concentrations
Second- and third-year students may develop a specialty in business law, child advocacy law, criminal practice, dispute resolution, environmental and natural resources law, estate planning, family law, green business law, intellectual property law, international law, law and entrepreneurship, law and public policy, ocean and coastal law, public interest law, or tax law. A student who satisfactorily completes one of these programs earns a concentration.

Academic Support
The Academic Choice for Excellence Program, a voluntary program open to first-year law students, is particularly beneficial for nontraditional law students and those who are the first in their family to attend college or have been away from school for several years. The program includes academic tutoring designed to bolster the principles that underlie first-year course work, to develop research and writing skills, and to clarify the law school examination process.

Master of Laws
The School of Law offers a degree program leading to a master of laws with concentrations in American law, business law, conflict and dispute resolution, or environmental and natural resources law. Applicants must have a JD from an accredited US law school or a law degree (e.g., LLB) from a non-US program of legal education. The program requires two semesters in residence at the UO School of Law and 24 credits earned.

The LLM seminar is an integrating experience for students, providing education on topics of current concern and introducing students to a variety of lawyers, officials, and natural environments in the Pacific Northwest region of the United States during field trips. The students also work to improve their skills in making presentations, preparing articles for publication, and working collaboratively.

Some LLM students also have the opportunity to participate in the clinical programs at the Western Environmental Law Center and Business Law Clinic and the externship program.

This program is intended to prepare a select group of postgraduate students for careers in teaching, high-level governmental or international positions, and legal careers in private or public service.

Full information can be found on the program website (https://law.uoregon.edu/programs/LLM).

Master’s Degree in Conflict and Dispute Resolution
The graduate program in conflict and dispute resolution, housed in the School of Law, offers an interdisciplinary, two-year master’s degree (MA or MS) granted by the Graduate School. It is an interdisciplinary program structured to prepare a new generation of practitioners and educators to... rethink traditional approaches to conflict. The program blends practice and theory inside the classroom with core and elective requirements and outside the classroom with 320 required internship hours and nonprofit and mediation clinic opportunities. The program operates on the quarter calendar, available online (http://registrar.uoregon.edu/calendars/academic).

Students are admitted to the program once a year, beginning in late August (summer session). Applicants do not need to apply to the JD program, nor are they required to have a specific educational background to be eligible. Applicants are required to apply online (https://gradweb.uoregon.edu) through the Graduate School system, GradWeb.

For 2016–17, first-year tuition and fees (which includes a short summer session) is $24,471.50 for residents and $32,276.50 for nonresidents. The total cost of attendance (including estimates for housing, books, personal expenses, and transportation) and information about scholarships can be found online (https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/CRES-tuition-and-financial-aid).

Additional Requirements

In addition, the master of arts degree requires that graduates meet the Graduate School language requirement defined at gradschool.uoregon.edu/policies-procedures/masters.

First-year students take all the core courses together as a cohort. In their second year of study, degree candidates focus on individualized learning, completing their elective course work, their internship, and their final project.

Electives may be selected from courses offered across campus by various departments and programs, including the Lundquist College of Business; international studies; planning, public policy and management; philosophy; political science; psychology; sociology; and others. The conflict and dispute resolution master's program offers its own elective courses that attract students from across the campus. Examples include grapping with zero-sum conflicts such as Israel-Palestine; environmental conflict resolution; managing conflicts in organizations; restorative justice; family mediation; and conflict and gender.

The internship is a key element of the educational program, providing practical experience in an area that has relevance to the student’s educational and career goals and the potential to be a stepping stone to future career development. The internship requirement is adjustable to allow students to complete their credits over one or more terms, with one or more organizations, and the opportunities can range from local to international locales.

The thesis, terminal project, or course concentration component of the degree requirements is sufficiently flexible in format and content to allow students to choose among a theory-based academic paper that studies an aspect of the field, a practical applied project, or a set of courses selected to build specific expertise in subject matter that will advance the student’s ability to extend or apply conflict resolution theory or practice. The terminal project and the course concentration also include accompanying summary reports. Successful completion of the final project requires an oral defense before the student’s final project committee.

Concurrent degree programs with the Conflict and Dispute Resolution Program are available for environmental studies, international studies, the JD program, business administration, multimedia journalism, community and regional planning, nonprofit management, public administration, and various PhD Programs. Other concurrent degree opportunities are considered on a case-by-case basis. Students are also eligible to pursue a variety of graduate certificates; for more information, visit the website (http://gradschool.uoregon.edu/academic-programs/#Graduate%20Certificate%20Programs).

Full information can be found on the program website, conflict.uoregon.edu, or by contacting cres@uoregon.edu or 541-346-1604.

Concurrent Degree Programs

JD/MS in Conflict and Dispute Resolution

The School of Law offers a concurrent degree program leading to a doctor of jurisprudence and a master of science degree in conflict and dispute resolution. Students receive two degrees in four years rather than in the standard five, deepening their understanding of negotiation, dispute resolution, and alternative methods of settlement. Applicants must apply to and be accepted by both programs.

JD/MA in International Studies

The School of Law and the International Studies Program offer a concurrent degree program leading to a doctor of jurisprudence and a master of arts degree in international studies with a specialization in international law. Students receive two degrees in four years. Applicants must apply to and be accepted by both programs.

JD/MBA

The School of Law and the Lundquist College of Business Graduate School of Management offer a doctor of jurisprudence and master of business administration (JD/MBA) concurrent degree program. The program prepares students to use their legal skills in fields that require understanding of business principles, finance, accounting, corporate management, sports marketing, and international business. Students receive two degrees in four years rather than in the standard five. Applicants must apply to and be accepted by both schools.

JD/MA or MS in Environmental Studies

The School of Law and the Environmental Studies Program offer a concurrent degree program leading to a doctor of jurisprudence and a master of arts or a master of science in environmental studies. This program introduces students to scientific, social, and legal aspects of environmental regulation and resource development. Students receive two degrees in four years rather than in the standard five. Applicants must apply to and be accepted by both programs.

JD/MA or MS in Media Studies
The School of Law and the School of Journalism and Communication offer a concurrent degree program leading to a doctor of jurisprudence and a master of arts or master of science in media studies. The degrees provide students with opportunities for both legal and communications internships. Applicants must apply to and be accepted by both schools.

JD/MCRP in Community and Regional Planning
The School of Law and the Department of Planning, Public Policy and Management offer a concurrent degree program leading to a doctor of jurisprudence and a master of community and regional planning. The degrees provide students with opportunities for both legal and planning internships. Applicants must apply to and be accepted by both programs.

JD/MNM in Nonprofit Management
The School of Law and the Department of Planning, Public Policy and Management offer a concurrent degree program leading to a doctor of jurisprudence and a master of nonprofit management. The degrees provide students with opportunities for both legal and public administration internships, and an array of course work that prepares students for a wide range of professional careers.
